

YES - Young Ecosystem Services Specialists

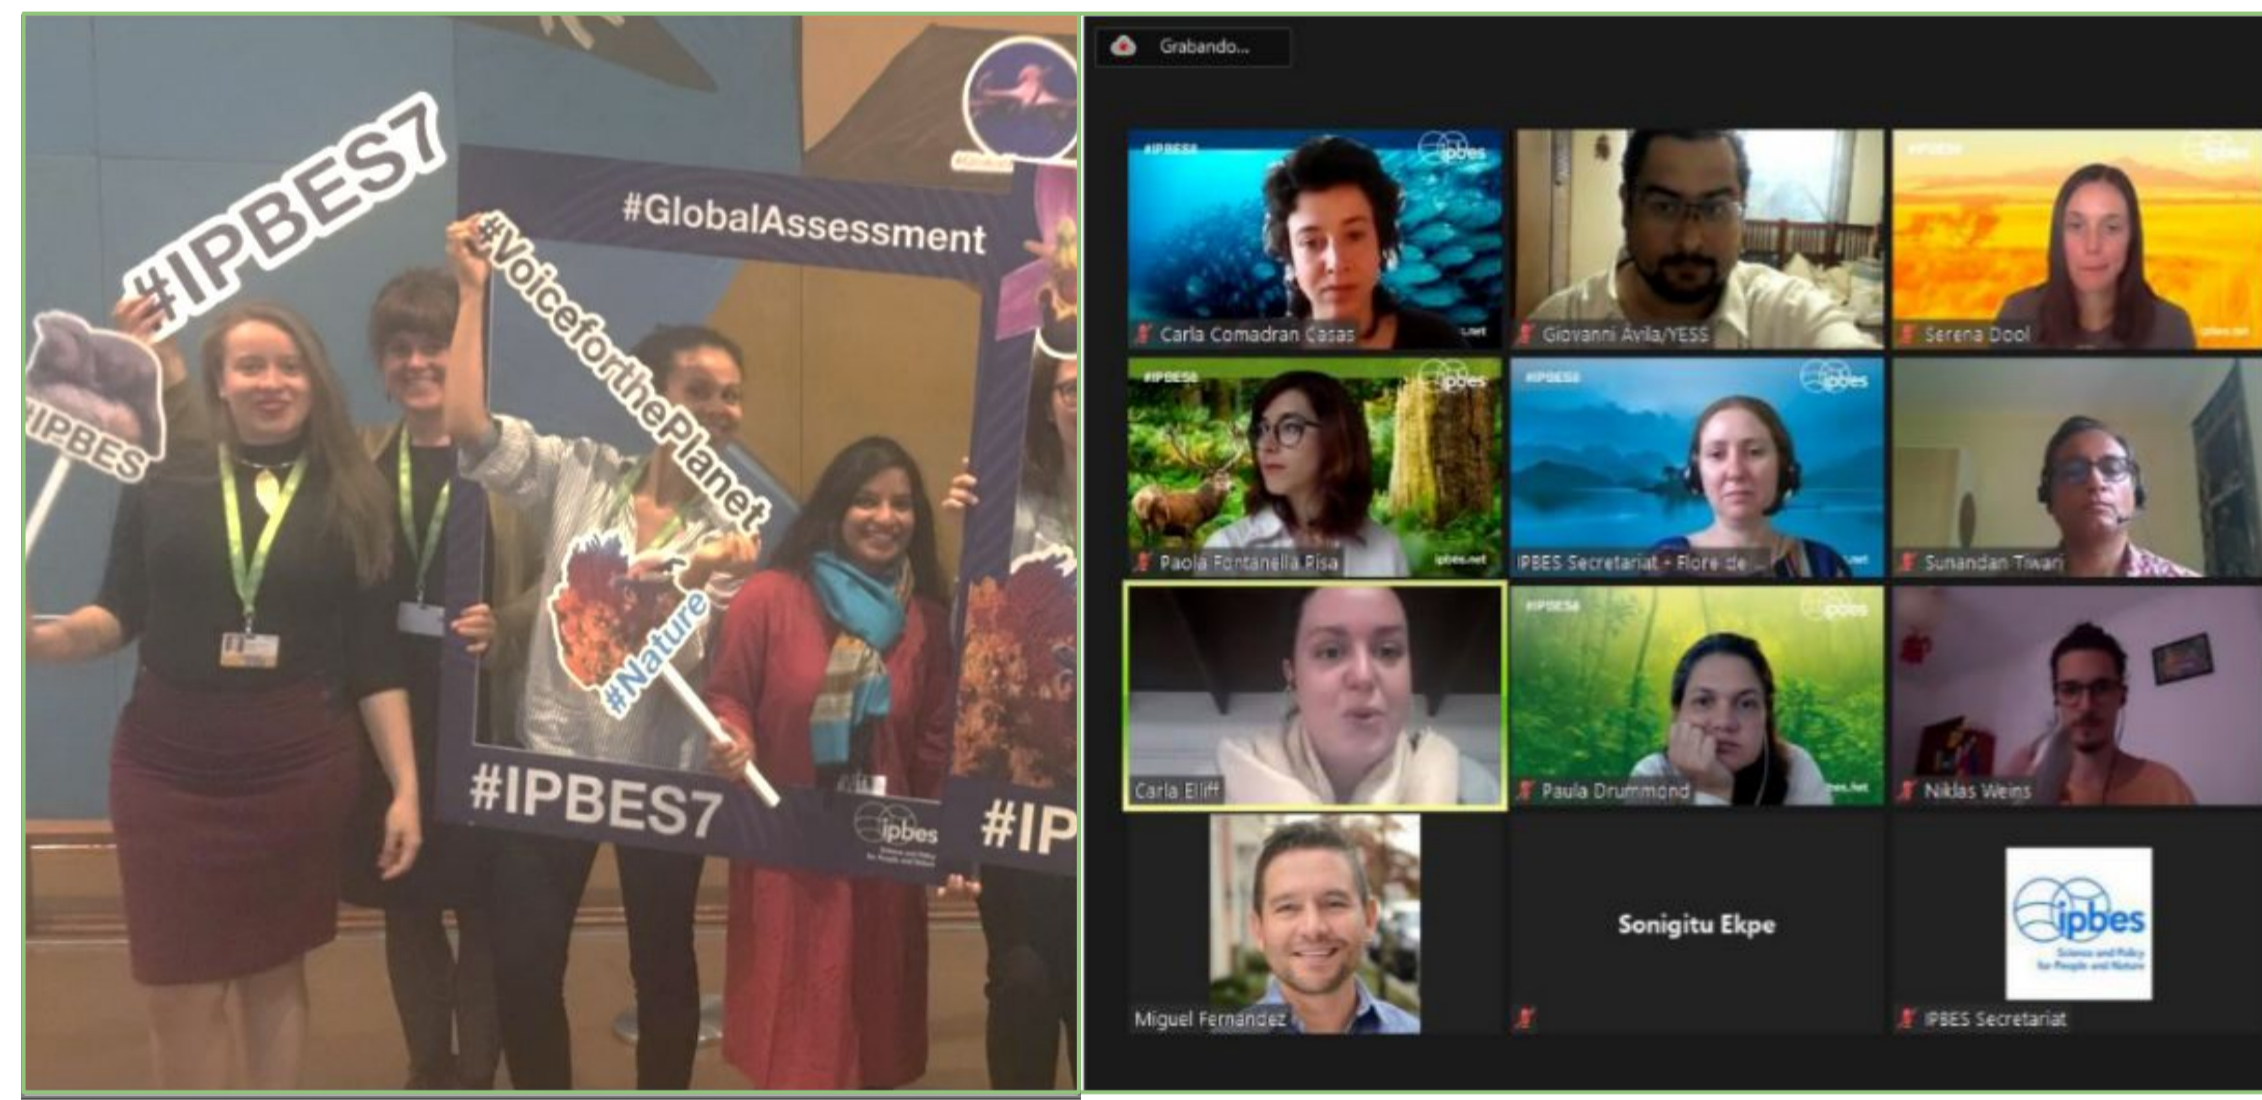

World map of YES members

Who we are

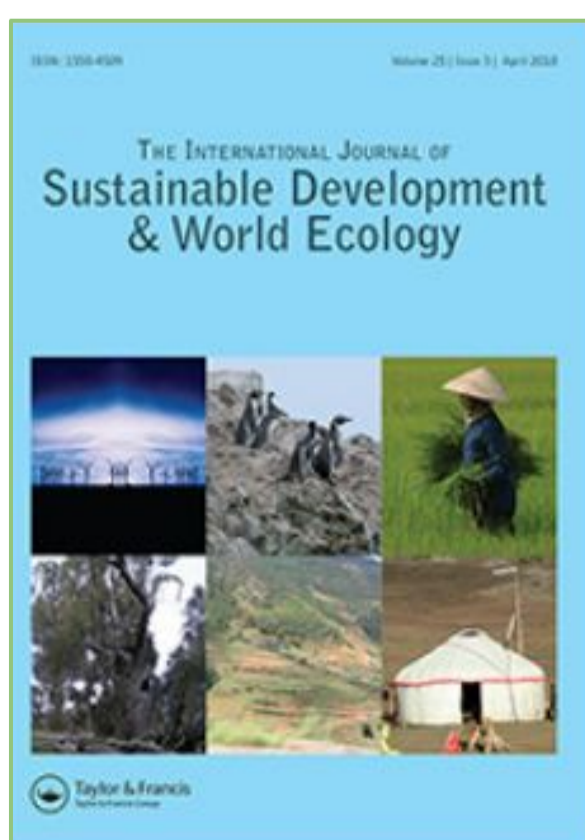

- Initiative by early-career researchers (ECR)
- Stimulate exchange of ideas, identify knowledge gaps and improve possibilities for training and capacity-building around ES science and practice
- Collaborations among ECRs & with researchers & practitioners
 - Meet-the-author events
 - Community Forum
- YES has over 800 members with a combination of post-graduate students, early-career scientists and practitioners from interdisciplinary fields such as Ecology, Biology, Spatial Planning, Social Sciences, Chemistry, Climate Science, Engineering, Forestry, Marine sciences and more

What we do

- Regional initiatives by members like: webinars, conference sessions & workshops
- Explore ideas for innovative research to gain experience in critical thinking and science communication
- Share opportunities through Email & Social Media
 - Joining our mailing list at freelists.org/list/yess
 - On Instagram, Facebook & Twitter @YES_Network
 - Nature Words blog on Medium.com/naturewords
- Regular youth/ECR sessions at the ESP's regional and world conferences in Europe, Asia, North America, the MENA region, Africa and Latin America, as well as other events such as the IUCN World Congress
- Bringing in challenges of ECRs into discussions about ES & biodiversity in relevant fora
- Ambition: Global reach, regional balance
 - Represent more members from Africa, Asia and Latin America

YES Delegation at IPBES7 (Paris) and IPBES8 (online)

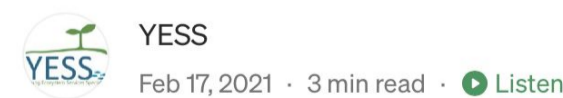

Identifying future research directions for biodiversity, ecosystem services and sustainability: perspectives from early-career researchers

Md Sarwar Hossain, Sarah J. Pogue, Liz Trenchard, Alexander P. E. Van Oudenhoven, Carla-Leanne Washbourne, Evalyne W. Muiruri, Aleksandra I Tomczyk, Marina García-Llorente, Rachel Hale, Violeta Hevia, Tom Adams, Leila Tavallali, Siân De Bell, Marian Pye & Fernando Resende

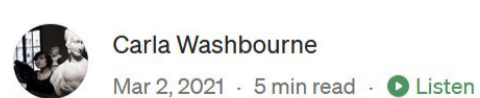

How to engage ECRs — an interview with Diana Hackenburg

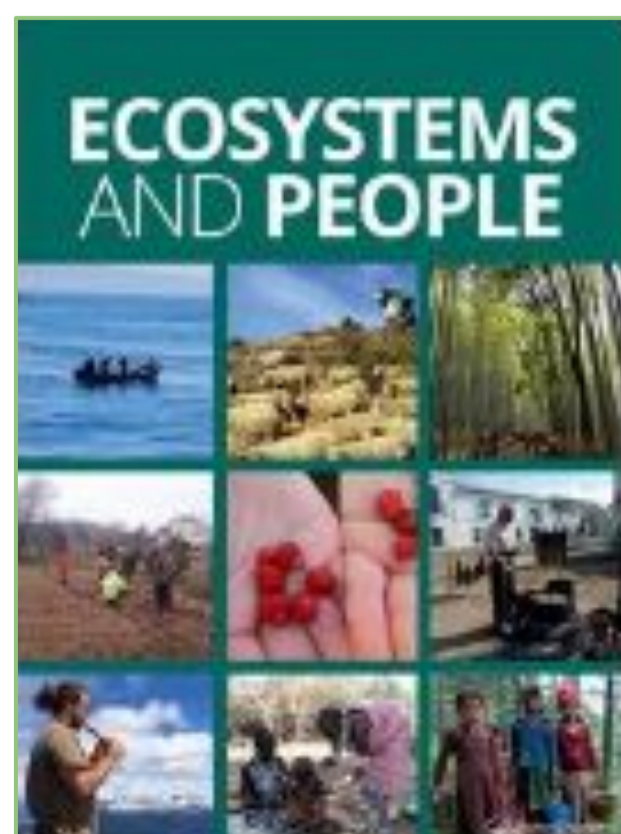

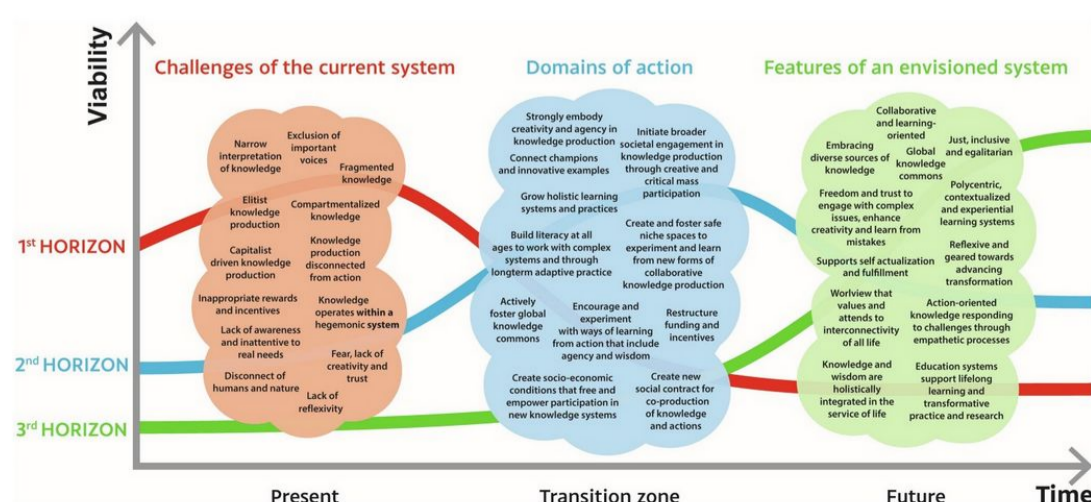

A good recipe on youth engagement for biodiversity protection

Disentangling 'ecosystem services' and 'nature's contributions to people'

Andrew N. Kadykalo, María D. López-Rodríguez, Jacob Ainscough, Nils Droste, Hyeonju Ryu, Giovanni Ávila-Flores, Solen Le Clec'h, Marcia C. Muñoz, Lovisa Nilsson, Sakshi Rana, Priyanka Sarkar, Katharina J. Sevecke & Zuzana V. Harmáčková

Transforming knowledge systems for life on Earth

SCAN ME

Check our website for more information and join us!
<https://www.es-partnership.org/services/networking/young-es-specialists-yess/>